Beat Band Boogie!

Name

These activities are for you to do at home with an adult. You can do all of them or choose the ones that you find most interesting.

Activities

1. Cut out a circle of paper. Fold it into half, then in half again. Make a dot in the centre to represent you. Sit quietly and listen for sounds in your house. Make a mark on the paper to show which direction the sound is coming from. Try the activity in different parts of your house. Are there any differences? What made each sound? Use the table below to list and describe the sounds that you heard.

| Animal sounds | Sounds from a machine |
|---------------|-----------------------|
|               |                       |

|               |                       |

2. Collect a range of household items. Make sounds using each one, and then complete the table. Write adjectives to describe the sounds that the items make.

5. Look at these musical symbols used by composers to show the rhythm of a piece of music.

Clap along to these rhythms.

Make up rhythms and try them out with someone in your house.

6. Look at these instruments. Find out their names and label them. Do you know which are woodwind, percussion, brass or strings?

- 7. Watch footage of marching bands online. For example, military marching bands or the annual ceremonial march of Trooping the Colour. Look at how the musicians synchronise their movements to the beat. Have a go at marching to the music, trying to keep in time.
- 8. Use the internet or a music app to listen to music from around the world. Search for traditional music from Japan, Africa, Greece and Ireland. Listen to the music carefully and complete the table. What instruments can you hear? How does the music make you feel?

| Continent or country | Instruments | How the musicmakes me feel |
